PROMINENT MAN SHOT BY ROBBER SO HE DECLARES

In Company With Another
Man's Wife on Boardwalk
When It Happened.

Attendant So Confused In His Story That He Is Held.

FAMILIES ALWAYS FRIENDLY

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—The authorities claim that the marauding of the mysterious shooting of Charles Roberts, the Baltimore millionaire, on the board walk with Mrs. Williams, his chum's wife, will develop a sensation that will startle Maryland. Roberts is believed to be dying, but insists a medical stranger shot him. Mrs. Williams will not talk. The fact that Williams thought his wife was in New Hampshire convinced the police that the shooting wasn't a holdup. They are tracing an auto seen near the spot, which, it is said, is owned by Baltimore.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—Shot down, according to his own statement, on the board walk, by a masked man who demanded money, Charles H. Roberts, wealthy Baltimore merchant and member of a distinguished Maryland family, lies in a dangerous condition at the city hospital.

Although at first convinced that the shot was fired by a robber, Chief of Detectives Whalen has declared his belief that there is more behind the affair than appears superficially.

In the first place, Mrs. W. T. Williams, wife of a well known Baltimore clubman, was with Roberts in a roller chair on the board walk, when the shooting occurred, and she hurried away, the police say, when a policeman rushed up. "She is at the Brighton hotel here. She is said to have made a statement to the police concerning the shooting, but it is withheld.

In the second place, Jesse Johnson, a negro employed to take care of the chairs on the highway, is declared to have made conflicting statements, which have caused his detention until detectives can investigate Mr. Roberts' story.

Taken By Surprise.
Roberts is the son of the late Judge and former Attorney-General Charles Boyle Roberts, of Maryland. His wife, now in Magnolia, Mass., with her five children, is the daughter of the late James Stern, financier and president of a Baltimore bank.
Roberts, who has known Mr. Williams some time and been friendly with him, came to this city last Tuesday. He met Mrs. Williams and last evening they went to the Shelburn hotel for dinner. That was about 8 o'clock, according to the clerks, and the pair after dinner started for the board walk. Roberts' story is as follows:

"The man leaped to the walk and held a revolver pointed at me. He ordered me to get out of the chair and give him money. My companion was so astonished she could say nothing and our attendant stood stock still while I stepped out. I sprang at the man, but he fired twice. One of the bullets entered my side. My assailant then fled."

Story Does Not Vary.
That was all Roberts would say, except that he was certain that the stranger held him up for purposes of robbery, as he carries a considerable amount of money with him at all times.

In the hospital, where the surgeons tried vainly to remove the bullet, Roberts did not vary in his story of the shooting.

Were Good Friends.
Baltimore, Md., Aug. 28.—From what can be gathered here concerning the relations between Roberts and Mrs. Williams, it is evident, their friends say, that they are very good friends. Mr. Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Williams frequently have had dinner together and the two families are not known to have enemies.

Mr. Williams, who is one of the "cracks" of the Baltimore hunters, when seen at his country home, in Long Green Valley, said his wife was not at Atlantic City; but in Boston. Mrs. Williams' maid in this city, however, said her mistress is in Atlantic City.

Mr. Williams expressed the greatest solicitude over Mr. Roberts' condition.

Building Must Be Strengthened.
Notice was issued today by Mayor James P. Smith that the four-story building at the northwest corner of Second and Jefferson streets had been condemned by the building inspectors. Soft crumbling bricks were found in the walls and the wall at the fourth floor needs anchors.

Colored Quarters at Central City Almost Wiped Out by Flames This Morning—The Origin is Unknown

About Fifty Houses in Gallie Caught By Fire Sweep ing Over the Settlement—A Bucket Brigade Formed.

Central City, Ky., Aug. 28. (Special.)—Fire broke out here this morning at 10 o'clock in a suburb called Gallie, inhabited by negroes. So far it is estimated that nearly 50 houses have burned. There is no fire department here and volunteer bucket brigades are doing their best to check the flames. Gallie is located across the railroad from the main part of town near the round house. It is not known how the fire started. There are no casualties. The rest of the town is not in danger.

Russellville Fire.
Russellville, Ky., Aug. 28. (Special.)—Buildings of the famous Russellville Methodist camp ground, near here, were burned last night. Incendiarism is suspected.

MAXWELL BETTER AFTER REST; NOT OUT OF DANGER

After a night of good rest, John Maxwell, the Illinois Central freight conductor, who was shot by a hood near Fulton yesterday, is still in an uncertain condition. The doctors hope that his strong constitution may be a factor in pulling him through. His wife and little child and his sister, Miss Beulah Maxwell, arrived yesterday afternoon on a special train from Jackson and are at his bedside. Other relatives arrived last night.

After a thorough examination the doctors found that one bullet entered under the right arm, and as he was standing sideways it is thought that the missile missed the lung. Two bullets about an inch apart entered near the lower ribs. These are the serious wounds, and the doctors have not made an effort to locate them, as it is thought they will not trouble him. Two other bullets grazed his right side, as the marks may be seen where they went through the clothing.

Maxwell's condition is such that visitors are prohibited from seeing him. It is reported from Jackson, Tenn., that Charlie Snow, a Jackson negro, was the hood that shot Maxwell.

GEORGIA'S CHIEF DANGER NOW FROM HEAPS OF REFUSE

Atlanta, Aug. 28.—The floods have ended throughout Georgia. Normal conditions are returning. There is greater danger now from the refuse and debris. Augusta health authorities are worried. The low there is a million. Rural districts are the worst sufferers. Crops are ruined throughout the river valleys and washed away completely.

Hargis Case

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Henry Hargis in testifying in the motion for a change of venue, said Dr. Hargis, brother-in-law of Beech Hargis, asked him to use his influence to have Hargis acquitted. No action is yet taken on the motion change.

SPRINGFIELD SUE FOR DAMAGES BY HEIRS OF VICTIMS

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 28.—The widow of Scott Thurston, the first negro lynched, has sued the city for $5,000, which the law allows mob victims. Heirs of Donagan, colored, are preparing to sue. Heirs of other victims cannot receive because the killed were stray bullets. Property owners have filed claims for $50,000. Loper's bar was reopened. It looks like a wild west saloon. The word work is full of bullets. The miners are shattered and the furniture is broken.

LOOKING FOR FRIENDS OF MR. WILLIAM SAWYER.

A letter was received this morning from H. Jones, chief of police of Welland, Ont., Canada, by Guy Nance & Son, undertakers. In the letter the chief asked for a picture of Will Sawyer, who died 85 days ago at Riverside hospital of consumption and has been in the undertaking parlors of Nance & Son since his death. The chief thinks he can locate some of Sawyer's relatives if he has a picture to identify the dead man.

Atlantic City's Lid

Atlantic City, Aug. 28.—It is reported this city will have its first "dry Sunday" in years. Following Governor Port's threat to send the militia to enforce the excise law, Mayor Stoy announced that he will keep the lid on. Sunday closing will be enforced hereafter. Port threatened to remove Stoy and appoint a new mayor.

BURIED IN SAND WERE BODIES OF FLOOD'S VICTIMS

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 28.—Eleven are known to be dead and many others are reported perished in a cloudburst at Folsom, N. M. Many houses were swept away. Heavy floods swept the canyons above the city and it is reported many persons were drowned. Practically every house was ruined. The dead include: R. B. Wenger, wife and daughter; T. W. Wheeler and wife and sister-in-law; and three children. Mrs. Rooke and Lucy Creighton. The bodies of the Wheelers were found buried in the sand after the flood passed. It is believed others perished in the same way.

Judge Orders Ballot Boxes in Third Ward Opened, Because Election Officers Are Accused of Fraud.

St. Louis, Aug. 28.—Judge Taylor has ordered the ballot boxes in the Third ward in the recent Democratic primary opened for investigation of alleged frauds. Prosecutor Sager discovered the names of many dead and absent men were voted. There are scores of affidavits of men who voted no votes in the returns. Five election officers have been accused of frauds.

Mrs. Greer Dying

Mrs. W. D. Greer, of North Fifth street, who has been seriously ill for several days with blood poisoning, is gradually growing worse. The family and the physicians have given up all hope of her recovery. Mrs. Greer's two daughters have not yet arrived from Oklahoma, but are expected at any time.

Baker Taken to Hospital

Oscar Baker, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses, was removed from the county jail yesterday afternoon to Riverside hospital. Baker has been ill of nervous trouble, and has been unable to have his trial. It is alleged that Baker secured a basket of potatoes and tomatoes from a marketer by pretending to be a grocery keeper.

Baseball Players Return

Lee Hart, the south-paw who pitched for Mounds, Ill., yesterday at Fulton, returned to Paducah today. George Block played third base for Fulton during the series, and this morning he went to Princeton, where he will don the mask and glove and catch in two games against Russellville. Hanyan will pitch for Princeton this afternoon, while tomorrow Stevens will twirl for the Caldwell county lads.

MOTHER WORRIED OVER DAUGHTER TAKES SEDATIVE

Mrs. Emma Nash Swallowed
Laudanum to Quiet Her
Nerves, She Said

Daughter Knocked the Bottle
From Her Hand.

REFORM SCHOOL SENTENCE

Worried over her daughter, and fatigued by sleepless nights, Mrs. Emma Nash, 37 years old, who resides at 1821 Meyers street, it is said, took too much laudanum last night. Mrs. Nash says she took a little of the opiate to quiet her nerves so she might rest, but seeing her drinking the liquid her daughter knocked the bottle from her hands. She swallowed too much of the laudanum. The police department was notified of the woman's condition and Mrs. B. L. Bradley, J. B. Acree and Carl Sears went to her home. She was in a serious condition, but she yielded to medical aid and today was out of danger. Nellie, her 16-year-old daughter, has been wandering the streets at night.

Nellie Nash was sentenced to a term of three years in the reform school this morning by County Judge R. T. Lightfoot. She will be taken to Lexington tonight by County Officer Jack Nelson. A crusade has been begun against girls that walk the streets after dark, and Nelson has the names of eight young girls on his list. These will be arrested Monday and taken before County Judge Lightfoot.

Adams Case

The case against R. W. Adams, colored, charged with selling drinks with less than 2 per cent alcohol, was heard in police court this afternoon. Attorneys Browning & Hazell for the defense, filed a demurrer. A jury was called in the case.

Panama Population 50,003

Colon, Aug. 28.—The recent census gives the total population of the canal zone at 50,003, of which 25,000 are employed by the Isthmian canal commission and the Panama railroad. Of the population 6,863 are Americans.

Perilous Political Activity

Washington, Aug. 28.—Enoch Hammonds, storekeeper and gauger, internal revenue service, Eighth district of Kentucky, was dismissed by the acting secretary of the treasury, on recommendation of the civil service commission, for alleged pernicious political activity in a state senatorial contest last fall.

LAW AND ORDER MEETING.

Will Be Held in Court House at Princeton Saturday.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 28.—A meeting in the interest of law and order will be held at the court house in Princeton next Saturday afternoon. The speakers will be County Judge A. J. G. Wells, of Calloway county; County Attorney Carl Henderson, of Crittenden county, and Judge P. H. Darby, of Princeton.

FLEET OFF GABO ISLAND.

Crowds Flocking Into Melbourne to Greet Our Ships.

Melbourne, Friday, Aug. 28.—A dispatch received here reports the passing of Gabo Island by the American fleet at 4:10 a. m. The fleet is now off Victoria coast. Great crowds are coming into the city in anticipation of the arrival of the fleet, the resources of the railways being strained to their utmost. The weather is dull and it is feared that the early part of the visit will be marred to some extent by rain.

AMERICAN HAD VARIED CAREER

Charles Hill Dies a Pauper After Having Served in Armies.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 28.—Charles H. Hill, a native of Wisconsin, and at one time holding a commission from the American navy as first lieutenant, which he resigned to become a captain in the Brazilian navy, commanding the cruiser Niteroy, and who afterward was a rear admiral of the Chilean navy, died today. Hill was a captain of volunteers in the Spanish-American war and when later mustered out of service, went to South Africa, where he was commissioned as a captain in the Boer army serving under General Cronje. It is said that Hill, at his death, was reduced financially to the verge of pauperism.

MARSHALL WILL HAVE REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER NOW

J. H. Ford, postmaster at Henton, and L. C. Stark, postmaster at Hardin, are organizing a company to publish a Republican newspaper at Benton, Ky. The paper will be launched in time to help out the national ticket.
They will also make a fight to the finish for the county officers, and as there is only about 400 votes difference between the two parties in Marshall county, it is easily conceded that if the Republicans put out good men for the county offices, with the right riders split in the Democratic ranks and a strong paper behind the candidates, the Republicans ought to win.

Fairbanks

Indianapolis, Aug. 28.—Fairbanks' offer of his services to the Republican state committee is considered an announcement that he again will seek the senatorship. It is understood that when Fairbanks was elected vice president Senator Hemenway agreed to retire if Fairbanks was not nominated president.

Back to Affinity

Monroe, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Mrs. Ferdinand Earle and babe have returned to the home of her affinity husband. It is expected the reconciliation means the withdrawal of the complaint that Earle beat her. Her home is guarded and the Earles will not discuss it.

JAPAN'S ANSWER TO EXPRESSIONS FROM AUSTRALIA

Tokio, Aug. 28.—The entire Japanese fleet will be sent to welcome the American ships as a part of a plan to outdo the other receptions to the visitors and make the visit an occasion of the greatest naval demonstration in the nation's history. A series of maneuvers is outlined and the entertainment of the Americans will be lavish. Apparently it is Japan's answer to recent expressions that the Pacific must be a "white man's ocean."

Haines Held

New York, Aug. 28.—Captain Haines and his brother are held without bail to the grand jury. The slayer is despondent and took no interest in the proceedings. He stared vacantly. There was no mention of the cause of the tragedy. Dr. Eye testified that nine bullets hit Annis. Charles Roberts testified that Thornton Haines said he was sorry the captain shot Annis. He tried to dissuade him and accompanied his brother because he couldn't deter him.

GOT SENTENCE IN REFORM SCHOOL FOR HIS OWN GOOD

With the coolness and precision of an experienced criminal lawyer, John Thomas, a 16-year-old negro boy, charged with taking a pair of trousers from James Jewell, pleaded his case this morning before County Judge R. T. Lightfoot. The boy made gestures with his hands, and despite intricate cross-examining, he remained at his good wits. Satisfied that the negro has a good mind, Judge Lightfoot ordered him sent to the reform school so that the boy may receive instruction.

Thomas admitted having the trousers, but in elaborate language, he tried to show that he did not have an intention to steal and placed all of the blame on "Shine," another negro. Only one mistake was made and that was when Thomas admitted that the trousers were too large for him to wear. He is about the wisest white boy Judge Lightfoot has had to deal, and for some time the county judge was baffled in the case.

GETTING READY FOR FOOTBALL

Gridiron Sport in Air and Coaches at Work.

Code Shows But Few Changes Which Will Have Little Effect on the Game.

QUARTERBACKS ARE IN DEMAND

With the appearance of the new rule book comes the feeling that the football season of 1928 is not very far away. Football coaches, captains, players and even rooters are studying the changes in the regulations and comparing them with the last year's rules. The changes in the rules this year are not so many as were expected, and will in most cases have little effect on the game.

The one new law which will have the greatest influence on the game is the rule which is changed to read, "When the forward pass is legally touched only the man of the passer's side who has legally touched it shall be entitled to recover the ball until it has been touched by an opponent."

"Also, if a forward pass is thus legally touched, fumbled and touched by another player of the passer's side before the ball has touched an opponent on the side where it was first legally touched."

This rule will make quarterbacks more careful where they try the forward pass. No quarter will try to use the forward pass where there is any chance of the opponents having an easy chance at goal should they be fortunate enough to secure the pigskin.

Good Kicker is Needed.

This brings up the fact that the team with the good kicker will have a great advantage this season. That was shown by the remarkable work of Capron, of Minnesota, and Steffen, of Chicago, last year. It has become so hard for a team where the eleven are evenly matched to gain the required ten yards in three downs since the double defense has been perfected that coaches have turned their attention more and more in this direction.

In past years the different teams have known great punters, place-kickers and drop-kickers, but never until this season has the good kicker been so much in demand. Kickers must be more than simply able to boot the ball, for the team needs their services in the game more than simply to kick the pigskin.

A kicker must be a man whom the opponents hardly know whether he is going to kick or run with the ball—for example, like Ekersal and Steffen, of Chicago, and Hure, of Indiana. Men like those heroes are the kind every coach is looking for. Of course these stars were in a class by themselves, and no coach can hardly expect to get such kickers, runners or defensive wonders, but, nevertheless, the coaches are all trying to develop such players.

Ready Quarters in Demand.

The quarterback will have to be a steadier player than ever this season. The quarter generally makes most of the forward passes and will, therefore, have to be a man who can handle the ball both on the long and short pass, and handle it with confidence in his own ability and with accuracy.

The back-field men will all have to be fast in getting started, but not necessarily sprinters. Of course, if they have the latter quality they will be all the better backs, but they must be able to start faster than ever this season, as football has become to be a game where the fast start is more important than the heavy mass play. The ends are the men who will be overworked this season. Kicking will be the important factor. The covering of punts and other kicks will, therefore, be more important than ever. The team will be required to do so much running this season that they will likely be completely exhausted at the end of most of their games.

The rules committee evidently had this in mind when they lengthened the time between halves from ten to fifteen minutes. This will give the players more time to recuperate and a faster game will, therefore, result.

Line Plungers Can Be Used.

The day of the heavy line man is not gone. With the development of the extreme secondary defense the backs have been moved back so far, and in some cases so far out that the line is left almost unstrengthened or backed up. This style of play may stop the forward pass or onside kick or trick plays, but what if a team has a powerful pair of line plungers that the center men cannot stop? A team needs big, heavy, strong, fast men in the line more this year than ever.

One thing is also more certain than ever, and that is this, that no team can gain consistently throughout a game by using simply straight football. The teams need the forward pass and other plays on the trick order to make their gains. The Johns must, therefore, be coached to meet this style of play.

When a forward pass does work it generally is for a good, long gain. Therefore the quarterback this season will rely more and more on his arm, but will have to be careful that he can pass it accurately, for if it is fumbled the opponents will get the ball.

Yost and Michigan.

Fielding H. Yost, coach of the University of Michigan football eleven, has predicted another successful season in the football world, and could see nothing but Michigan in the middle west as a gridiron power, despite the fact that a number of the Wolverines' star players were lost by graduation.

"Can't say much about the question at Michigan except that we will have another good team," he said. "Absolutely no doubt about it. We held a short spring practice this year with a view of getting something of a line on next year's material. You know, we had no freshman team last year, and it will be a pretty hard job to secure likely timber from the last-year ranks. Of course, Michigan will again be out of the western conference, and will paddle its own canoe. Manner Bald has scheduled a number of hard games, and I have no doubt that we will have our hands full all the time. We lost several good players, but I think that we will be able to develop men to take their places. Schultz, our great center, will be captain of the team, and I am putting a great deal of confidence in him."

"As a general thing, I think the season of 1928 will be a most successful one. The coaches and players are now more familiar with the new rules, after a try-out of two years, and I look for some remarkably fast work on the field this fall. It is impossible to say much about the eastern teams just now, for it's pretty early to be talking football."

SATURNALIA

REIGNS AT ATLANTIC CITY, ACCORDING TO GOVERNOR.

Governor Fort, of New Jersey, Will Declare Martial Law If Necessary.

Saugert, N. J., Aug. 28.—In a startling public proclamation issued from the summer capital Gov. Fort declares that unless the excise law is observed in Atlantic City, which he calls a "Saturnalia of Vice," next Sunday and all saloons and cafes closed tightly, he will call an extraordinary session of the legislature and may send the New Jersey State troops to the famous resort, declaring the city to be under martial law. This is the most drastic action which has been taken to enforce a general law in New Jersey.

Governor Fort, in his proclamation, ridicules the fiasco of ten days ago, when a grand jury at Mays Landing, the county seat, refused to find indictments, and says that the action was a burlesque; that three members of the grand jury were owners of saloons in Atlantic City and that the others were in sympathy with the violators of the law. The grand jury now in session is not likely to find indictments, the governor declares, and in his proclamation he states that he has affidavits from James C. Steelman and William R. Winters, stating that they purchased liquors last Sunday in saloons operated by three members of the grand jury.

The governor says he can see but one or two things to do under the circumstances. First, call out the military and police of Atlantic City, and declaring the resort to be under martial law. This would require an appropriation by the legislature. Second, he will ask a special session of the legislature to enact special legislation authorizing him to appoint a disinterested commission to take charge of the affairs of Atlantic City. He also wants a law authorizing him to remove officers, after a hearing, for failure to perform, or who willfully refuse to do their duty.

men whom they implicated in their confessions had determined to make an example of them. At the direction of County Attorney Walter Krouse, of Lyon county, to whom they made their confession, the four witnesses were spirited to Louisville and have been cared for, it is said, by some of the officers of the Law and Order League.

"Since coming to Louisville they have made their home with Mrs. Lucy Rice, who lives at 1316 Jefferson street, who conducts a boarding house at that number. They remained there until last week when they read in the newspapers of an effort made by Commonwealth's Attorney Denny P. Smith to have them taken back to Eddyville to appear before the grand jury. They immediately left Louisville and went to New Albany, outside of the jurisdiction of the Kentucky courts.

"Yesterday Hall and Stevens returned to Louisville and went back to their rooms at Mrs. Rice's residence. Hall's whereabouts were kept a secret and the authorities were unable to locate him until a few days ago when he wrote to several persons in Caldwell county, giving them his address. The fact became known in that section of the state and now when visitors from that section come to Louisville they look Hall up at the address given.

Strange Men Came in Groups. "Such was the case yesterday. An excursion train over the Illinois Central railroad brought several hundred visitors to Louisville from western Kentucky. Many of them were men implicated by Hall and Stevens in their confessions. From Caldwell county alone there were sixty of the excursionists and in crowds of three or four they visited the neighborhood of Hall's boarding house, probably more out of curiosity than anything else.

"Mrs. Rice saw small groups of men in the neighborhood last night. They came in crowds of three or four and would stop in front of her gate. She saw several groups, one of which contained six men, all of them wearing slouch hats, and appeared to be from the country.

"Mrs. Rice's neighbors also saw the strange-looking men and they became alarmed. Some of them feared trouble and they telephoned Chief of Police Hauger and asked for protection. John Stites, formerly a member of the board of public safety, also reported the case to the chief of police. Colonel Hauger visited the neighborhood and assured the residents that they would be afforded every protection against the 'night riders,' if such they proved to be.

Statement of Landlady. "When seen by a reporter for The Times, Mrs. Rice said that Hall left her home yesterday, and that he was not in the house when the strange men appeared.

"Whether they came here to do harm to Hall and his companions I don't know," said Mrs. Rice, "but their actions were very suspicious to me. Hall was almost terrified as it was, as he feared that harm would come to him, but he did not stay in Louisville last night. The strange men were in groups of three or four and they lingered around the gate, some of them coming in the yard and inquiring for Hall. Some of the neighbors telephoned the police, and that's all I know about it."

READY TO THROW BRYAN OVERBOARD

Indiana Democrats Will Do Anything to Elect Marshall.

Care Only for State Ticket—Nehras—Can Do What He Pleases and It Will Not Worry Taggart.

THE MEN THAT OWN THE PARTY

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Aug. 28.—Political gossip galore may be heard on all sides in connection with the aftermath of the Kern notification meeting at Indianapolis Tuesday, and the presence at that time of William Jennings Bryan, candidate for president. This gossip has revived more strongly than ever the rumors to the effect that the real leaders of the Democracy in Indiana, Thomas Taggart, Joseph Bell, Crawford Fairbanks, the brewery king, and others among the big brewers, who were furnishing the financial sinews of war in the present fight, are for Bryan to his face, and indifferent to him behind his back. In other words, Taggart and his allies are for Marshall and a Democratic legislature. So pronounced is this impression that the real friends of the commoner in Indiana, those who were for him when Taggart, Bell, Marshall, the candidate for governor, and a dozen of other gold Democrats, were against him, are now muttering under their breaths and declaring that if anyone is to be sacrificed it will be Marshall.

One leading southern Indiana Democrat, who has fought the battles of his party when the outlook was discouraging, when Bryan was being deserted by the Indiana leaders, and had little money, has expressed himself to the effect that Bryan will run 10,000 votes ahead of Marshall in this state. This gentleman, while in Indianapolis on Tuesday, got ample proof of the fact that a plan was on foot to sidetrack Bryan for Marshall, and he then made the above statement.

Will Not Support Marshall. Continuing, he said: "The Democratic farmers who are for temperance will not support Marshall on his temperance platform. Therefore Bryan will run ahead of Marshall."

While not saying so in so many words, this gentleman intimated strongly that Marshall would lose, also, because of the underhand fight his friends are making against Bryan. It also is being pointed out that these same Democratic farmers who are against Marshall on temperance grounds are for Judge Taft as a result of the unexampled prosperity the agriculturists are enjoying at present and which they wish to enjoy.

Bolted Democrats. Another thorn in the flesh of Marshall is the fact that he voted in two recent congressional elections against the Democratic candidate in his district. This is being freely asserted, and the netion is rising up like a ghost to haunt the candidate for governor now that he is preaching his party loyalty in his own behalf. Again it is charged that in Mr. Marshall's speech at the Kern notification Tuesday, when he talked ten minutes in the presence of Bryan, he for the first time mentioned the commoner's name in a public address. It was this failure which caused the Democratic papers of the state to jump on him in a vigorous manner.

HOW STREET CAUGHT BALL. Took Sphere Six and Three-fourths Seconds to Fall From Top of Washington Monument.

Of Catcher Street's feat in catching a baseball dropped from the top of the Washington monument, a special from the capital says: When the insignificant-looking sphere had landed, a feat long considered impossible had been accomplished, and Street was hailed as the first man who had ever caught a ball thrown from such a height—five hundred and fifty feet.

The impact against the catcher's mitt is estimated at 200 pounds. The velocity the last second was tremendous.

Street used the ordinary catcher's glove.

At the end of the first second the ball had dropped 16 1/2 feet.

At the end of the second it had dropped 64 1/3 feet.

At the end of the third second it had passed over 154 2/3 feet.

At the end of the fourth second it had dropped 256 feet.

At the end of the fifth second it had dropped 361 feet.

At the end of six and three-quarter seconds it has passed 555 feet.

The stirring scene was witnessed by only a few men who had been invited to the test. There was Street himself, standing sixty feet away from the base of the monument. Around him clustered Preston Gibson, newspaper proprietor and club man; Ganley, left fielder of the Washingtons, and McBride, shortstop.

Far above this little group, in the tiny window that looked like a dot on the monument, stood Mr. Gibson. He had ten baseballs with him. He constructed of two little planks a sort of runway, down which he was to roll the spheres.

There was no warning of when the first ball, or the last one, was to come hurtling down to Street. He didn't care to have the advantage of the usual signals from the pitcher. All he could do was to stand there, eyes like slits, hands held out, head up, waiting.

He knew that before him such glants of the diamond as "Buck" Ewing, Paul Hines, Charley Snyder and Malachi Kilbridge had stood in that same spot long ago and made gallant but futile attempts to capture the baseball that swished and sank downward faster than any express train, wriggling as if they had St. Vitus' dance, now being swept this way by the wind, in an instant forced in another direction, always erratic, always baffling.

Street stood on the north side of the monument. Suddenly Ganley sang out: "Here she comes!" Street saw the ball—a tiny dot against the sky. The wind whisked it to one side. Street shifted his positions. It took just six and three-quarter seconds for the ball to hit the earth, thirty feet away. Again came a whistling, erratic ball. It plunged far from the catcher. Seven other spheres shot downward, and yet Street might as well have been a mile away.

Four other balls were sent up. Street changed to another side of the monument to echure the wind. Ball number ten sped far behind him, and the catcher moved once more until he got sixty feet from the base of the monument.

Ball No. 11 came closer to the man below, and he had his gauge. The twelfth balled hummed almost into Street's hands. It touched the tips of his fingers, and from the impact he knew that if one of the missiles hit his head it would be good night for him.

Gritting his teeth at the thought that unlucky thirteen was coming his way, carrying defeat, the plucky catcher heard Ganley sing out again: "You've got it!"

There was a "bang!" and Street quivered from head to foot, as a ship would quiver in a collision. He stood as still as a wooden Indian, looking at the little sphere in his hands. Then he laughed like a child, only half conscious of the fact that he had done what no man in the world ever had done before. His companions clustered about him and escorted him in triumph to his quarters. He played ed this afternoon, following his feat, and seemed none the less able to perform because of the tremendous thump his hands received.

Street described his experience as follows: "The approach of the ball appeared to be in wavy lines, and that motion was made more realistic by the prevailing winds. I couldn't gauge the line of flight, and that is a condition of the first importance in stopping a ball. It was an unusually windy day."

No man can ever be great who is not willing that many should think little of him.

Statistics Being Studied. The more fact that so much attention is being paid nowadays to the collection and publication of statistics showing the mortality and casualty records in our industries, the uncompensated inroads into our natural resources, the destruction of property which the national board of fire underwriters now reports, suggest that the country is growing out of the wasteful period of excessive youth. It is in itself the promise of a change for the better.—New York Evening Sun.

Daily Thought.

Only a man who is too busy to find fault is likely to find happiness.

How could Ferdinand Earle be expected to know whether he had an affinity for the mother of his "soul mate"?

A special from Paducah published in some of the daily papers of the state says: "Reports from portions of Trigg county tell a story of terror, pitiful in the extreme. Night riders, it is claimed, are running people out of the county in order that their property may be thrown on the market at a sacrifice." This is a plain, common, ordinary damnable—Cadiz Record.

If you want to shoot somebody, say he was a night rider and you are sure of a pardon from Gov. Willson.—Cadiz Record.

BANKS AND THE PUBLIC.

In discussing banking regulations the relations of banks to the commercial and industrial interests of the community, as well as to the depositors, should be considered. Banks are not simply places of safe deposit for accumulated cash. The industrial and commercial development of a community depends largely upon them. Banks are called upon to accommodate citizens in the furtherance of legitimate enterprises, and in times of financial stringency and extraordinary demands, such as arise in crop moving seasons, the local banking situation is of vital consequence to business interests. One of the important points to be considered is keeping the money of the community at home and accessible to safe local enterprises. The analogy between a savings bank and a well hidden tin can full of gold may, and often is, carried too far by tyros in financial legislation. Proper safeguards to make bank deposits safe, of course, should be of first consideration; but communities, especially like Paducah where every dollar is made to do yeoman service and there is no idle capital, would suffer, if true relations between the banks and the business world were disregarded.

AMERICA'S MISSION.

Two men, more divergent in type, or better representing the opposing views in politics, than Taft and Bryan, could not have been chosen for presidential candidates. Bryan sees nothing but the evils in our government; while it is manifest that Taft thinks this is a pretty good country, take it all around.

A man, who declared in 1896 that the country would go to the dogs, if we didn't have the free coinage of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one, is very apt to think the country is well on its way by this time, unless he has changed his views on the money question. Twelve years in the middle of a man's life devoted to antagonizing every policy of the government must have moulded his mind to some extent; and so we see Bryan, not advocating policies of constructive statesmanship, but proposing to undo what has been done since he entered the public arena with his silver panacea. It is the same old Bryan. He has discarded "sixteen to one" for "fifty per cent." Whereas twelve years ago he was for increasing the per capita circulation to give the people more money, he now proposes to limit the holding of any one to fifty per cent of the visible supply, thus giving the "plane popul" a chance to corral some of the other fifty per cent. If this falls of popularity, there is only one progressive step for Bryan—Socialism, the other fifty per cent. We do not care how many different kinds of Socialistic parties there are, nor what particular remedies each advances, the one distinctive tell-tale mark of a Socialist is his tendency to exalt property and his conviction that a redistribution of wealth will bring happiness and contentment.

Taft is imbued with that sort of patriotism that is akin to religion; he believes in the mission of his country and its Presidential guidance. In that spirit he is of the type of McKinley, devout and confident.

Mr. Taft's years on the bench gave him the opportunity and time for calm reflection and contemplation of our institutions. His public career since leaving the bench has been associated with the policies he is pledged to prosecute to their fulfillment.

It was the commendation of one who has been afield and knows the situation—that William H. Taft gave to foreign missions. Mr. Taft himself has been a sort of missionary for the government. He carried peace to the Philippines and to Cuba; he carried a message of good will from Uncle Sam around the world, and he brought order out of chaos in Panama. He knows the value of missionaries to the outside world and to the United States.

Moreover, Mr. Taft's writings and speeches as far back as his public record goes breathe the missionary spirit. Mr. Taft believes sincerely, devoutly, in the mission of the United States. If he has labored earnestly for one thing, it has been for the square deal for the Philippine Islands. Mr. Taft believes that the war with Spain was the most righteous conflict ever undertaken; that it was unselfish and was precipitated by the outraged sense of justice of this country. He long ago declared his belief that Providence set this people apart and trained it for the betterment of mankind, and that Providence has placed upon our shoulders the burden of our less favored brothers' keeping. Instead of shrinking from the responsibility already partly assumed, he believes we should undertake the work in the same altruistic spirit that actuated the country in going to war.

No man has courted the conditions, which brought about this responsibility, and there is no man, who would not rather have seen the country escape the burden; but who is there today, even among those that once shed scalding tears over the plight of the Patriot Aguinaldo, would turn the Philippines over to the mercies of colonial incompetent Japan, to garrison the middle of the Pacific and threaten our western coast? Or who would think of leaving those people to their own devices? Our only course is to make our colonial system a model for the world. As a man on becoming a parent puts aside the follies and loose habits of his youth, so this nation now must assume certain attributes of maturity, both as to our internal affairs and our foreign relations, always maintaining an exclusive dignity, as becomes one called of Providence, conserving our resources and holding peace with honor to be the very aim and essence of true statescraft.

There is no parallel between this country and the Roman republic; there is no parallel between our unpremeditated act of "benevolent assimilation" and Rome's deliberate policy of conquest; there is no parallel between our administration of colonial affairs for the uplifting of their peoples, and Rome's exploitation of her colonies for the enrichment of the ruling classes at home. The one develops character, national and individual; the other destroys national character and debauches the individuals. History read aright is a good guide; but the story of one nation's downfall cannot generally be applied to another people, under totally dissimilar conditions and environments. It is inconsistent, but natural that those very people, who declare a colonial policy will ruin America, because history has recorded the downfall of ancient nations engaged in such enterprises, to demand that we live to ourselves, when the same history tells them that no nation can live to itself. China is an example of the recuse among nations, and she is being forced against her will to become sociable.

Our only possible danger lies in our own carelessness. We have sufficient elasticity to adjust ourselves to this new responsibility; but we must keep alive the spark of patriotism in our own bosoms; we must see to it that in our own every day lives, in our own municipalities and in our own local governments honor and purity are the inspiring motives. We must have an educated populace; we must destroy corrupting influences; we must see to it that immigration is not merely a stream of ignorant foreigners pouring into the cess-pool of our great cities, but a stream of new material replenishing the blood of the country, properly distributed under Americanizing influences.

We are just as able today to assimilate Europeans as ever we were. Bring a family of southern Europeans under proper American influences and the children of the family will grow up in full sympathy with the spirit of our institutions. The daughter will marry an Irish youth, whose grandfather was a Dutchman, and the fruit of such a union will be a typical American citizen.

Above all we must not neglect our schools. An ignorant population is easily debauched and deceived. We have taken on new responsibilities, but so did our forefathers, when they cast loose from colonial dependence and embarked for themselves in a new country under untried conditions. They developed with the need, and so shall we, if only we keep ever before us our own responsibility to Providence for the talent, which has been given us.

Let us see to it that our schools do not suffer, that we may have thinking men and women, capable citizens, ever growing in power and comprehension. As long as we proceed thus we need never fear. We cannot turn back; we must not falter.

His Thanks.

Chapter XII

A CAMP IN THE MOUNTAINS. THE study of maps and time tables is a far more profitable business than appears. John Armitage possessed a great store of geographical knowledge as interpreted in such literature. He could tell you without leaving his room and probably without opening his trunk the quickest way out of Tokyo or St. Petersburg or Calcutta or Clichy Tigh, Mont. If you suddenly received a cablegram calling you to Vienna or Paris or Washington from one of those places.

Such being the case, it was remarkable that he should have started for a point in the Virginia hills by way of Boston, thence to Norfolk by coastwise steamer and on to Lamar by lines of railroad wile schedules would have been the despair of unhardened travelers. He had expressed his trunks direct and traveled with two suit cases and an umbrella. His journey since his boat swung out into Massachusetts had been spent in gloomy speculations, and two young women looked for Baltimore, wrongly attributed his reticence and aloofness to a grievous disappointment in love.

He had wanted time to think—to ponder his affairs—to devise some way out of his difficulties and to contrive the defeat of Chauvenet. Moreover, his relations to the Claibornes were in an ugly tangle. Chauvenet had dealt him a telling blow in a quarter where he particularly wished to appear to advantage.

He jumped out of the day coach in which he had accomplished the last stage of his journey to Lamar just at dawn and found Oscar, with two horses, waiting.

"Good morning," said Oscar, saluting.

"You are prompt, sergeant." And Armitage shook hands with him. As the train roared on through the valley Armitage opened one of the suit cases and took out a pair of leather leggings, which he strapped on. Then Oscar tied the cases together with a rope and hung them across his saddle bow.

"The place—what of it?" asked Armitage.

"There may be worse. I have not decided."

Armitage laughed aloud. "Is it as bad as that?"

"The man was busy tightening the saddle girths, and he answered Armitage's further questions with soldier-like brevity.

"You have been here?"

"Two weeks, sir."

"And nothing has happened? It is a good report."

"It is good for the soul to stand on mountains and look at the world. You will like that animal—yes? He is lighter than a cavalry horse. Mine, you will notice, is a trifle heavier. I bought them at a stock farm in another valley and rode them up to the place."

The train sent back loud echoes. A girl in a pink sunbonnet rode up on a mule and carried off the mail pouch. The station agent was busy fiddle at his telegraph instruments and paid no heed to the horsemen. Save for a few huts clustered on the hillside there were no signs of human habitation in sight. The lights in a switch tangle, showed yellow against the growing dawn.

"I am quite ready, sir," reported Oscar, touching his hat. "There is nothing here but the station. The settlement is farther on our way."

"Then let us be off," said Armitage, swinging into the saddle.

Oscar led the way in silence along a narrow road that clung close to the base of a great pine covered hill. The morning was sharp and the horses stepped smartly, the breath of their nostrils showing white on the air. The far roar and whistle of the train came back more and more faintly, and when it had quite ceased Armitage sighed, pushed his soft felt hat from his face and settled himself more firmly in his saddle. The keen air was as stimulating as wine, and he put his horse to the gallop and rode ahead to shake up his blood.

He found Oscar, with two horses, waiting.

"It is good," said the stolid cavalryman as Armitage wheeled again into line with him.

"Yes, it is good," repeated Armitage. A peace descended upon him that he had not known in many days. The light grew as the sun rose higher, blazing upon them like a brazen target through deep cliffs in the mountains. The morning mists retreated before them to farther ridges and peaks, and the beautiful gray-blue of the Virginia hills delighted Armitage's eyes. The region was very wild. Here and there from some mountaineer's cabin a light penciling of smoke stole upward.

They once passed a boy driving a yoke of steers. After several miles the road, that had hung midway of the rough hill, dipped down sharply, and they came out into another and broader valley, where there were tilled farms and a little settlement with a blacksmith shop and a country store, postoffice and inn combined. The storekeeper stood in the door smoking a cob pipe. Seeing Oscar, he went inside and brought out some letters and newspapers, which he delivered to him in silence.

"This is Lamar postoffice," announced Oscar.

"There must be some mail here for me," said Armitage.

Oscar handed him several long envelopes. They bore the name of the Iron Loan and Trust company, whose office in New York was his permanent address, and he opened and read a number of letters and cablegrams that had been forwarded. Their contents evidently gave him satisfaction, for he whistled cheerfully as he thrust them into his pocket.

TOBACCO NEWS

Louisville Tobacco Markets.
Louisville, Aug. 28.—The offerings on the local tobacco breaks follow: Old crop, burley 25; 1907 crop, burley 58; dark, 85. Regular inspection, 136; reviews, 13. Total 148. Rejections, burley 33, dark 15. The Pickett warehouse sold 20 hogheads of burley at $11.75 to $20 and 5 hogheads of dark at $5 to $7.

The Dark warehouse sold 62 hogheads of burley at $6 to $10.50.

Kentucky Tobacco Crop.
The following excerpts from the monthly crop report of Commissioner M. C. Rankin, of the Kentucky department of agriculture, shows the general condition of the growing tobacco crop in the various producing sections of the state:

Dark Tobacco.—Not quite an average, due to much rain during the planting season.

Balanced County.—Tobacco suffering greatly on account of dry weather.

Callaway.—The tobacco crop is greater in acreage than for three years, but its condition worse than ever known, on account of so much wet weather in its early growth.

Carlisle.—Some tobacco has been topped.

Crittenden.—Tobacco is looking fairly well.

McLean.—Growth of tobacco has been slow on account of the dry weather.

Marshall.—Crops have improved since last report, especially tobacco.

Todd.—Too much rain in early part of season and so little now has badly injured tobacco.

Trigg.—Tobacco is small and not growing well.

Conditions in Clarksville District.
Clarksville, Tenn., Aug. 28.—The seasons have been unusually good for the past three weeks and the crop as a whole in the Tennessee counties is unusually good. Cutting was begun last week and some barns are almost empty. The housing will become general next week and the chances are that the cleanest crop will be housed that has been raised for a number of years.

Tennessee Crop.
The crop as a general thing is of good yield and is of a quality that is properly cured and will give to the buyers a fine silky leaf, useful for all the markets. It is very probable the Austrian buyers will be able to get a good supply this season of what has been scarce for some time. The farmers all boast of a fine crop and are well pleased with their year's work.

The Acreage.
Since the action of the Montgomery county association upon the acreage question for 1908 many of the farmers seem to be dissatisfied, as they do not believe the reduction sufficient. They reason logically that there is no reduction whatever on the 50 and 100 acre farms and as there are so many more of this class of farms the reduction will not be over one-third and should be at least one-half. If their reasoning is correct, and it seems to be, and there is a clamor for the one-half crop, the body when again convened should make the change desired, and have it rightly and amicably adjusted and in time to reach other counties in due time for their consideration.

Notice.
The Cohankus Manufacturing company having completed their repairs will resume operations Monday, August 31.

SENT LETTERS TO ROOSEVELT.
Demands Money and Threatens Scandal If Refused.

Bordeaux, Aug. 28.—An extraordinary story was told at the court-martial of a member of the military ambulance corps, Camille Marquet, who was charged with attempting to black mail President Roosevelt.

According to evidence Marquet wrote the president twice, once demanding $2,000 "on account of services rendered during the presidential election," and the second time threatening a scandal "which will cast dishonor upon the whole family unless the money is forthcoming at a fixed date."

The president handed the letters to the French consul general. Marquet was arrested, but the court in consideration of the good character of the youth, gave him the benefit of the first offender's law and sentenced him to six days' imprisonment.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Miss Wilcox's Engagement.

Mrs. Ellen Wilcox has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Marie Brown Wilcox, to Professor Charles H. Shreve, of Boston, Mass. The wedding will take place next Thursday at the home of Miss Wilcox's uncle, Major J. H. Ashcraft, 714 Jefferson street.

Miss Wilcox is the only daughter of Mrs. Ellen Wilcox, and was a teacher in the public schools at the Jefferson building. She was graduated from the High school in 1906.

She is a pretty young girl of the blond type, and has many friends. Professor Shreve has been in charge of the science department of the High school for two years, but in June resigned to accept a similar place with the Dubuque, Ia., High school. Professor Shreve is a rising young scientist, and was popular in Paducah.

The Rev. G. T. Sullivan will perform the ceremony, which will be quiet, with no attendants. Only the intimate friends and close relatives have been invited. After the ceremony the couple will leave for Rockport, Ill., on a visit to friends, before leaving for Dubuque, Ia., where they will reside. Miss Wilcox had an unusually brilliant mind, and has made a success as a writer.

TAKES UP CONGO TREATY.
Belgian Senate Begins Consideration of Annexation.

Brussels, Aug. 28.—The Belgian senate today began its consideration of the treaty providing for the annexation of the Congo Independent State to Belgium. M. Schollaert, the premier, urged the speedy adoption of the measure.

Foreign Minister Davignon then sketched the international aspect of the matter. All the powers welcomed annexation, he said. The two treaties with France would be renewed, the first recognizing France's preference, of rights in the Congo, and the second, that of 1895, under the terms of which France recognizes the annexation condition and obtains transportation concessions from French exports over the Congo railroads and an adjustment of the Saugha frontier.

SEES BIG LANDSLIDE.
Democratic Stand on Asiatic Labor Will Not Tilt Votes.

New York, Aug. 28.—Senator McCumber and National Committee member Kennedy, of North Dakota, talked with Chairman Hitchcock about Republican affairs in the western states today. They predicted that North Dakota and the adjoining states would cast as strong a vote for Taft as was received by Roosevelt four years ago.

H. F. Alexander, president of the Alaska Pacific Steamship company at the Republican headquarters today expressed the opinion that there will be a landslide on the Pacific coast for Taft and Sherman. He declared that the Democratic plank in relation to Asiatic labor was not proving a sufficient argument to change the voters who have been republicans.

Gift to Taft.
Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 28.—The three hundred and fifty guests of the Homestead Hotel last night presented Judge Taft, Mrs. Taft and Master Charles Taft each with a silver loving cup as a formal farewell expression of their regard. The big hotel family gathered in the ball room, where for an hour Burr McIntosh lectured and showed incidentally a half hundred views of Mr. Taft in his various occupations and pastimes taken during his stay of nearly two months.

Not For Him.
"Why don't you take a short cut when you're going to your work?" asked Cassidy.

"Shure there is no daicnt short cut," replied Carey.

"Of course there is. Ye could go across the Country Club's grounds."

"Shure, that's no daicnt. D'ye think I want to be took for a golf player?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Gift.
Some navies in a railway carriage were once in loud conversation, swearing boisterously the while. One of them was especially fluent. "My friend," said another passenger in shocked tones, "where did you learn to use such language?" "Learn!" cried the navy. "You can't learn it, guv'nor. It's a gift, that's what it is."—Dundee Advertiser.

Grocery Merchant Fails.
Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 28.—J. R. H. Hester, a prominent grocery merchant, made an assignment today, naming C. M. Parkhill as assignee. The liabilities are over $1,200, with assets nearly as much.

FIGHT FOR SOUTH.
Republican Campaign Managers on Lookout for Congress Seats.

New York, Aug. 28.—Some of the plans Republican politicians in the south are making in an effort to increase the Republican representation in Congress from their states were made known to Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock today by visitors from Virginia, Alabama and Louisiana. The plan for "invasion of the south" was outlined by Mr. Taft, the Republican candidate for president, in recent speeches and interviews in Hot Springs, Va. He expressed the opinion that an effort ought to be made by the Republican national campaign managers to carry close districts and Mr. Hitchcock concurs in that view.

HEAT-DANGERS FOR CHILDREN

The little folks do not stand the heat as well as their elders, and special care should be taken to keep them in good physical condition. One of the things to be especially watchful of is the condition of the bowels, which presents many dangers hardly dreamed of by parents. When the child shows any tendency to constipation, if it loses appetite, complains of headache, itch, or fails to sleep well and awake refreshed, the mother may be certain that the child needs a tonic-inactive with ingredients such as are contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, of which most mothers have heard and which thousands of mothers are using for themselves and their children. Indigestion is one of the worst troubles of childhood in the summer time, and it manifests itself in many different ways. In some it produces constipation, in others diarrhea, accompanied by a mild form of piles, by worms, distention, etc. Whatever the cause and whatever the manifestation the mother may be sure of removing the trouble with a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which should always be kept in the house for emergency. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and can be obtained of any druggist. Get a bottle today and watch results. It is mild, pleasant and promptly effective. It is a good home cure, absolutely pure and free from narcotics. Those who have never used it, and wish to make a test of it before buying, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE by addressing PEPSIN SYRUP CO., Monticello, Ill.

WOMAN'S NIGHTMARE

No woman can be happy without children; it is her nature to love them as much so as it is the beautiful and pure. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass is so full of dread that the thought fills her with apprehension. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either very painful or dangerous. The use of MOTHER'S FRIEND prepares the system for the coming event, and it is passed without any danger. This remedy is applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the crisis with but little suffering.

Thinks It Saved His Life.
Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would not be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs, it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

It Was a Night Horse.
Awakened by a horse walking over n trash pile, T. L. Darnell, a grocer at Tenth and Trimble streets, thought that someone was walking on the roof of his building. Being unable to see the man, Mr. Darnell took his pistol and fired four shots through the ceiling and tin roof. When the noise of the walking did not cease he made a closer investigation and found that a horse was walking around in yard strewn with tin cans.

BRYAN TALKS ON GUARANTEE PLAN

Answers Taft's Objections in Speech at Topeka.

Says He Does Not Approve Kansas Republicans' Declaration of Plan.

HE DELIVERED FOUR SPEECHES.

Topeka, Aug. 28.—Before an audience which filled the Auditorium to overflowing, Bryan spoke on the guaranty of bank deposits. Previously he had delivered three other addresses, two from the veranda of the hotel and a third at Garfield Park, where he attended a picnic in the Knights of Pythias, his latter theme being "Fraternity."

Bryan, in view of the action of the Kansas Republican state convention which indorses the guaranty of deposits proposition, made some remarks supplementary to his prepared speech on that subject. He took up the advantage of the guaranty system and then answered the objections made by Taft and others.

He asked why a depositor should be left uninsured when the national government demanded the security of any bank with which it deposited money. He pointed out that the choice was between the postal savings bank and the guaranty bank and he declared that he preferred the guaranty bank proposition, which would allow banks to extend to their banking business and yet compel them to give their depositors necessary security.

Bryan said that from inquiries he had instituted among Kansas bankers three-fourths of them favored the guaranty system, while there was no opposition among the depositors. He did not approve the declaration of the Kansas Republicans on the guaranty plan because they proposed that the banks "mutually and voluntarily" guarantee deposits. He wanted the banks to be compelled to guarantee deposits. This he said could easily be done by a Democratic president and a Democratic congress.

Bryan said in part: "The chief cause of bank failures is the making of excessive loans to directors or officers of the bank. This is the fruitful cause of disaster and it has been impossible to secure legislation protecting banks from their own officials and directors. Why? Because there has been no mutual responsibility. When all banks become liable for the deposits of each, the stockholders will insist upon the enactment of a law making it a criminal offense for a bank official to loan more than the prescribed amount to one individual. At present we have a law prohibiting the loaning of more than one-tenth of the capital and surplus to one person or corporation, but the law is only directory. Of course, the controller can suspend a bank if it violates the law, but the law is not enforced because the enforcement of such a law would throw the punishment upon innocent stockholders and upon the community, since the suspension of a bank inflicts a great loss upon stockholders and disturbs the business of the city or town in which the bank is located.

The law should make it a criminal offense to loan more than the prescribed amount to one person and we would probably be able to secure the passage of a law prohibiting market speculation by bank officials.

Oklahoma Plan.

The Oklahoma plan is better. A bank recently failed in Oklahoma; within forty-eight minutes after the notice of suspension, the officer in charge had authority to pay all depositors, and then the banking board proceeded to collect the assets of the bank and to prosecute the officials criminally. When the business was closed up, the stockholders passed a resolution thanking the state board for its prompt action, the action of the board being a protection to the stockholders, as well as to the depositors and to the public generally.

Compare this failure under the guaranty system with a failure where there is no guaranty. In Oklahoma the bank commissioner telephoned the farmers to come in and get their money, and the answer was: "I am busy today with my crop; I will be in in a day or two."

In Cleveland, O., a bank failed about the same time, and the papers announced: "Twelve hundred infuriated Italians stormed the closed doors of the busted banking house of Costan Llopo, on Orange street, today. The police drove the crowd back."

An objection is sometimes made to the guaranty law that a "new bank would start up across the street," and, being able to promise its depositors absolute security through the guaranty law, could draw the deposits away from conservatively managed banks, by offering a higher rate of interest than the latter could pay. This objection is urged as if it were an unanswerable one. But let us see how easily it can be met. Since the law makes all of the banks liable for the obligations of each bank, the law should prohibit any abuse of this security by any bank, and in Oklahoma the banking board has already fixed the rate of interest that can be paid to depositors. According to the rules of the banking board, no bank is permitted to pay more than 4 per cent on time deposits running for six months or more.

The Big Bank.

It has also been urged as an objection that under the guaranty system a big bank would have no advantage over a little bank. Even if this argument were sound, it could not weigh against the advantages of the system, for banks are made for the people, not the people for the banks. While there are advantages in having big banks, the advantages are not sufficient to justify the jeopardizing of the depositor or of the business interests of a community.

But, as a matter of fact, the big bank would still have several advantages over the small one. In the first place, it could make larger loans than the small bank. For instance, a bank with $1,000,000 capital and surplus could only loan $10,000 to one person. This advantage would in itself draw to the larger bank the large deposits and the men doing business upon a large scale, for deposits follow accommodations.

Then, too, there is a certain business advantage in depositing with a big bank. It is worth something to be able to refer to a big bank when one's financial standing is being investigated, and worth still more to have the advice of a man of large business experience when business enterprises are being considered.

Besides there is a social advantage in being on good terms with the men who are prominent in the banking world. Surely the big bank's prestige will be worth enough to it under the guaranty system; it should not begrudge the smaller banks the advantage which the guaranty of deposits will bring to them.

Defends the Idea.

It has sometimes been objected that the guaranty system would bring into the banking business a lower class of men and reduce the average character. On the contrary, the guaranty of deposits, I submit, would make any difference in this respect, bring into the banking business a better class of men and raise it that is possible, the average of character. It is not to a man disreputable that he is not willing that one of his fellow men should lose money on his account. Is it not a mark of character that a man should be careful of his good name and considerate of the esteem of his fellows? At present a successful farmer or business man may be induced to take stock in a bank. It may be that his name is desired to give standing and credit to the bank, but such a man is constantly haunted by the fear that a bank official may be guilty of criminal conduct which will bring the bank into disrepute. It is even possible that the bank's assets may be entirely dissipated, and that the honest citizen, who has become a stockholder, may either be compelled to go beyond his legal ability or meet the bitter criticism of the depositors who have suffered by the failure. Would it not be worth something to the stockholder, in peace of mind, to know that the maximum of his loss would be the value of his stock and the 100 per cent liability, and that no depositor could lose anything? I am convinced that the guaranty of deposits would not lead to degeneration in the personnel of the bankers.

To justify a law guaranteeing depositors, it is not necessary to show that the advantage to the bankers would amount to more than the tax

PASSENGER AND FREIGHT CLASH

One Fireman Dead and Engineer Dying as Result of Collision.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—In a collision between a freight and passenger train at Milbrg, Ill., on the Galena division of the Northwestern, the fireman of the passenger train, John Gallagher, was killed, and Engineer E. Thompson fatally injured. The wrecked passenger was No. 123 and due in Milwaukee at 3:50 p. m. The freight was an extra south-bound, and investigation showed that it was not under control when the accident occurred. The passengers were severely shaken up, but only one was injured, according to a report received by the officials of the road in Chicago. Thompson was hurried to a hospital at Platteville, fifteen miles from the scene of the accident. Both of his legs were fractured and he suffered internal injuries. He cannot live.
